

ORLANDO, FL

NAVAIR Orlando Training Systems Division (TSD) is one of eight Naval Air Systems Command sites that provides the highest standard in warfare technology through supremacy in naval aviation technologies. TSD at Orlando is part of the Naval Air Warfare Center Aircraft Division.

MISSION

TSD supports NAVAIR in providing the warfighter with absolute combat power through technologies that deliver dominant combat effects and matchless capabilities. TSD is the principal Navy center for research, development, test and evaluation, acquisition and product support of training systems and to provide interservice coordination and training systems support for the Army and Air Force.

PRODUCTS AND SERVICES

In Orlando, NAVAIR enjoys the advantages of over fifty years of partnering among the military services, industry, academia and state and local government. Orlando is the Navy's source for a full range of innovative products and services that provide complete training solutions. This includes requirements analysis, design, development and full-life cycle support. Of significance is Orlando's ability to provide continuous learning across a wide variety of applications (aviation, surface, undersea, etc.). The division integrates the science of learning with performance-based training and measurement of training effectiveness focused on improving the performance of Sailors and Marines. Work is accomplished by leveraging with industry, academia and other partners. We continually engage the warfighter to understand challenges, solve problems, create new capabilities and provide essential support.

PEOPLE

Orlando comprises approximately 1,050 employees. Of those, most are located in Orlando, including about 68 active-duty military. The remainder of the Orlando employees serve at 45 field sites across the nation, including command representatives in Washington, DC; Norfolk, Va.; Pensacola, Fla.; Jacksonville, Fla. and San Diego, Calif. Orlando's workforce is a highly educated one with 48 doctorate, 275 masters and 775 bachelors degrees. The average salary of Orlando employees is $87,000.

FACILITIES

The Orlando site is located on forty acres ceded to it by the State of Florida. This facility forms the core of an unparalleled training and simulation infrastructure. On the same site, the Navy hosts the Army and Marine Corps commands that have the same training development mission for their respective services. Within the Research Park that surrounds this space, Air Force, Coast Guard, Department of Defense and Joint Services projects also have a major presence. The TSD also shares space with the University of Central Florida and is working hard to expand its capability through highly integrated partnerships with the university. In and around the Research Park simulation, training and human performance industry has offices, plants and parallel infrastructure that support and reinforce the government partnerships. This geographic concentration and co-location provides a highly symbiotic and mutually dependent relationship that reduces costs, advances technology and maximizes shared resources.
